Conference Attendees to Participate in First Ever HCAA Gives Back Project
Activities to Benefit Operation Homefront Southern California

Minneapolis — At the 2011 HCAA TPA University, Applying Principles of Success, attendees will take away more than industry knowledge. At this year's conference, each attendee will have the opportunity to participate in the first ever HCAA Gives Back project.

The project is to fill backpacks with school supplies to support Operation Homefront Southern California. The organization is a national non-profit that provides emergency financial and other assistance to the families of our service members and wounded warriors.

Attendees will start by picking up an empty backpack at the registration area. In order to fill the backpack, participants will visit sponsor display tables that have one of the many supplies needed to complete the package. Supplies include; a 3-ring binder, glue sticks crayons, pencils, scissors, etc. The goal is to fill 150 backpacks for Operation Homefront Southern California.

TPA University, offers a comprehensive view of a single trend or issue within third party administration. The event is July 13 – 15, 2011 at the Hilton Bayfront Hotel in San Diego, CA. A complete listing of conference sessions and speakers as well as a complete conference agenda can be found at www.hcaa.org/tpa/tpa_Speakers. Conference registration is available at www.hcaa.org/tpa.
